- Physical exercise and eating healthy is very important. Why is this? Research its benefits and create a poster or video presentation to present your findings.
- Why not plant a flower of your choice and keep a record every week of its growth? You can use a measuring tape to help observe and measure its progress. How about noting your findings in a table and creating a bar or line graph to demonstrate them?
- Use J2E or Adobe Express to create an animation about the process of plant reproduction. Why not record yourself explaining its process?
